REVEREND AND DEAR SIR-Your recent peeches, as reported, on the subject of colored men for special jury service in criminal causes involving colored persons as defendants, convince me that your retirement from the practice of one of your professions for a time has rendered you unfamiliar now with the statutes governing the subject. About five hundred citizens of the third listrict, including a good many ladies and tizens of Memphis, were in attendance esterday, at M'Ghee's springs, to listen to peeches upon the present canvass in Shelby ounty. At twelve o'clock Colonel Ila Douglass

Mr. Kortrecht followed, and, in substance stated that Mr. Kenneday, colored, and Judge Bigelow, candidates for county court clerk and criminal judge on the Republican ticket, would withdraw before election day, leaving only two tickets in the field. He completely exposed the modes in which the different tickets were nominated, and he appealed to the people, as the judges of right and wrong, to say which was the honest

EDITORS APPEAL—I ask space in your pa-per to briefly notice the following sentences in an anonymous communication in yesterday' APPEAL: "Mr. Kortrecht never was in the habit of doing something for nothing. He could a tale unfold, if he chose, as to how he got possession of a valuable, highly improved dence by working upon the fears of the former owner of the property, of threats or talk of confiscation and demolition, to meet the wants or necessities of the Federal authorities." This evidently refers to the purchase by me, in 1864, of my present residence. The simple facts are: In the summer of 1864 a real estate agent in Memphis, named Haley, who, I think, is since dead, came to me and asked me if I wished to pur chase a desirable residence. I told him I did. He told me the Cleaves place, on Shelby street, was in his hands for sale at thirty thousand dollars, and he put Mr. Cleaves and myself in communication. In a very few days we completed a trade, I giving him for his dwelling house and one-half of the ground attached to it ten thousand dollars in cash and other property which had cost me fourteen thousand dollars. In the deed to me, we nominally put the price at twenty thousand dollars. The next year I purchased the other half of the ground from Mr. Barney Graham at six thousand dollars. A few weeks after my purchase I heard for the first time that it had been contemplated by the military authorities to remove or tear down Mr Cleaves's residence, on account of the Fort Pickering fortification, and that this, perhaps, was one of the reasons for Mr. Cleaves' willingness to sell. How this may have been I do not know. Not a word on the subject ever passed between Mr. Cleaves and myself. regard for me as expressed the day before That I got possession of this property "by working upon the fear of the former owners or "by threats and talk of confiscation and demolition to meet the wants or necessities of the Federal authorities," is a statement, so far as I am concerned, as groundless and and false as it is possible to make a statement with the same number of words. Not a word ever passed between Mr. Cleaves and myself, neither before, during, nor after the purchase, on the subject of the probable or possible confiscation or demolition of the proper ty. The rumor I heard after making the purchase I never mentioned to Mr. Cleaves. CHARLES KORTRECHT.
